

— The Story —

M. Bivona is a published author who needed high-quality editing for his new book.

M. Bivona has self-published both professional and autobiographical works throughout his writing career. He is also an accountant who takes a businesslike approach to publishing and is very detail oriented.

— The Goal —

His aim was to self-publish his book to a high standard despite a busy lifestyle.

With a busy, travel-heavy life, M. Bivona needed to outsource the editing of his new book, Traveling Around the World with Mike and Barbara Bivona, to editors who were prompt and able to complete the work according to his high standards.

— The Solution —

Scribendi.com's editing service helped M. Bivona publish an award-winning book.

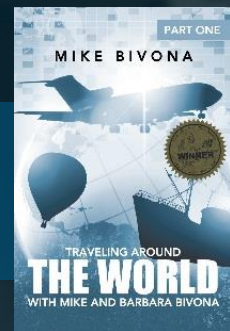

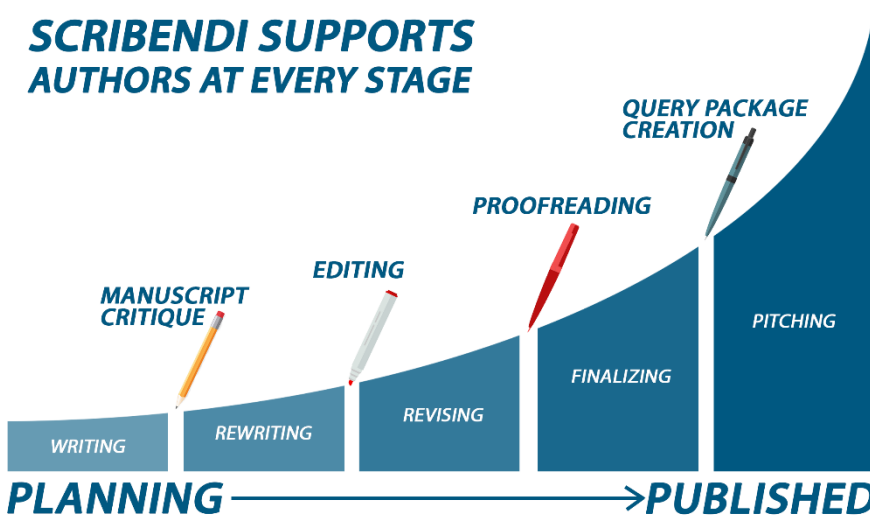

With Scribendi.com's editing service, each change and suggestion was easy to review, resulting in a print-ready manuscript. M. Bivona became a winner of the Eric Hoffer Award, which promotes excellence in independent publishing.

The most important consideration that I had was that the editors had credentials and were proficient in the English language.
