

— The Story —

T. Wilkinson is a young author who was looking to publish her first book.

T. Wilkinson had always wanted to write a book but never seemed to have the time to do it. One night she had a dream about a story she'd been concocting. Half asleep, she wrote down everything she could remember. One year later, she had published Blood of the Ancients.

— The Goal —

Her aim was to get published while staying within her budget.

T. Wilkinson needed professional help to prepare a query package to market her finished manuscript. Other companies wanted to charge her for services that she didn't need.

— The Solution —

Scribendi.com's Query Package Creation service helped T. Wilkinson to get published.

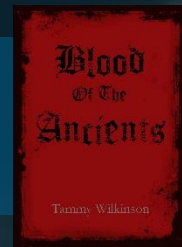

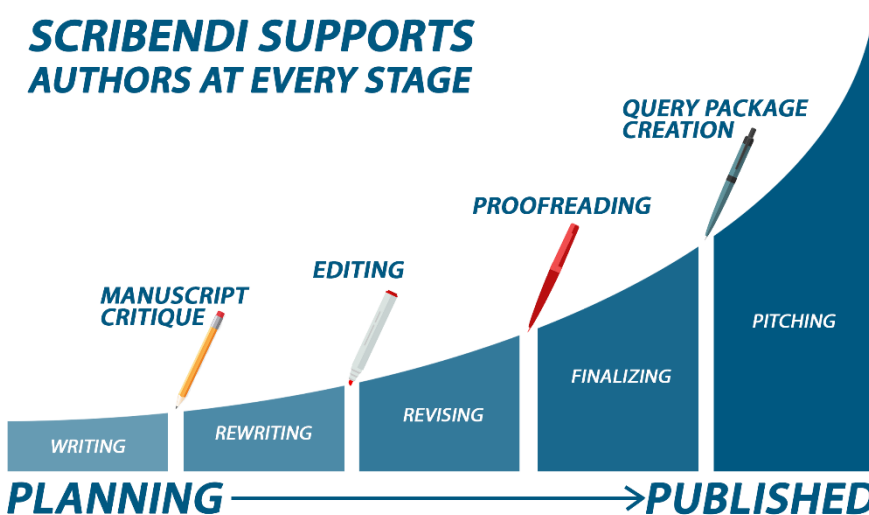

Using the query package creation service from Scribendi.com, T. Wilkinson found that she could get exactly what she wanted without having to pay extra for services she couldn't afford or didn't need.

All the services that Scribendi.com offers are customizable. I can get exactly what I require without having to pay for extra services that I can't afford or don't need.
